

Abstract

A computer networking system, method and device for multiplexing HTTP requests and demultiplexing HTTP responses. The method may include receiving HTTP requests from a plurality of clients and routing those requests to a socket on a server system. The method may also include receiving HTTP responses from the server system and selectively routing those responses to the corresponding clients.

FOIA b 7 - DATED 04/25/2011